

Document Delivery Service

Libraries deliver copies of journal articles, few pages of chapters in books or reports, and magazines to the users through Document Delivery Service (DDS). Users can request for a copy of an item required for teaching, course work, or research from the library holdings which will be delivered electronically to their desktops in the campus or off-the-campus. For faculty this is free. Students are charges a nominal photocopying fee.